HISTORY OF THE ATLANTA HAWKS

One of the best kept secrets in sports history was announced on May 3, 1968, when it was revealed that one of the National Basketball Association's traditionally great teams, the St. Louis Hawks, was moving to Atlanta.

The move took the sports world by complete surprise as there had been no inkling of the transfer which was finalized a few days later at the NBA's annual meeting.

Bringing the team to the South were two of Atlanta's and Georgia's most respected gentlemen, Former Governor Carl E. Sanders and businessman Thomas G. Cousins. They acquired the club from Ben Kerner, who had built the Hawks into a team with a tradition of winning.

Atlanta had long been a city with an NBA future and only the lack of an adequate building had held the city back. Sanders and Cousins solved this problem by gaining permission to play in Alexander Memorial Coliseum in Atlanta which seats nearly 7,000.

Of course, in the future for the city and for the Hawks is a new coliseum which will not only give the Hawks a home, but provide the area with a building of unlimited usefulness. No official announcement has been made concerning a coliseum, but it will become a reality in the ensuing years.

The move o fthe Hawks was the NBA's first venture into the South and makes the league a true national sport with the 14 teams stretching from border to border—Northwest to Seattle, Southwest to Phoenix, Northeast to New York and Southeast to Atlanta.

Atlanta and the Southeast is noted as a true hot-bed of sports lovers who will go all out for a winner and if the past holds true, they have such a team in the Hawks.

But that history was not always so. The club had floundered along in Milwaukee for many years with only minimal success until in 1955 the move was made to St. Louis.

Only Bob Pettit, the league's Rookie of the Year the previous season, and All-America Frank Selvy of Furman were well known "names," but the supporting cast included some well-traveled but capable pros and the Hawks began to build what was to become the Western Division's most powerful club.

The club tied for second with Minneapolis their initial season in St. Louis, then upset the Lakers in the semi-final playoffs before bowing in the finals to Fort Wayne.

In 1956-57, the Hawks won their first of five straight Western Division titles. They finished in a three-way tie with Minneapolis and Fort Wayne, but downed first Fort Wayne, then the Lakers to earn the title.

After sweeping to the playoff title, they battled Eastern champion Boston down to the wire in a best of seven series, losing the finale of the seven-game set in Boston 125-123, in a double overtime contest that has been tabbed the most exciting game in the history of the NBA.

The following campaign saw the Hawks soar to the World Championship defeating the Celtics four games to two. In the finale, Bob Pettit played the greatest game of his pro career, scoring 19 of the Hawks' last 21 points—a total of 50 for the contest—to spark the Hawks to the title.

The Hawks made it three crowns in a row in 1958-1959 winning the Western title by 16 games. But in the divisional playoffs, play-maker deluxe Slater Martin was sidelined by an injury and the Hawks lost to the Lakers four to two, losing the last two by margins of one and two points. The Hawks' two triumphs were by 30 and 34 point margins.

In 1959-60, the high-flying Hawks won their fourth straight title—by 15 games—and won the divisional playoff crown before bowing to the powerful Celtics in a seven-game championship series.

Then in 1960-61, the Hawks won Western Division title number five in a row, taking the crown by a 15 game margin. But history repeated itself, and the club lost again to the Celtics for the world championship, this time four games to two.

Then came one of the most astounding tumbles in the history of pro sports. From Western Division titleholders the season before, the Hawks fell to a 29-51 mark and fourth place in the West. It marked the first time that the club had failed to make the playoffs during their six years in St. Louis.

But the future was not that bleak. There were many circumstances behind the fall. Vet guard John McCarthy missed the last 65 games with a leg injury. Clyde Lovellette ,one-time member of basketball's highest scoring front-line (Pettit and Cliff Hagan were his mates), missed 40 games and his backup man vet Larry Foust sat out 23 games. And to make matters worse, Lennie Wilkens, a brilliant guard his rookie year the previous season, was unable to get out of service requirements and could play only in 20 games.

A complete changeover was obviously to come and it began when Harry Gallatin, one-time Iron Man with the Knicks, was hired away from Southern Illinois where he had completed a highly successful four-year coaching career. He became the Hawk coach and the club began to rebuild. Actually, that job had already begun. Mike Farmer, a vet frontliner, was purchased from Cincinnati and rookie Gene Tormohlen (now the club's Assistant Coach) was acquired from Syracuse. Each was to play an important role in the resurgence of the Hawks.

Only three players were still around when the 1962-63 season opened—Pettit, Hagan and Wilkens. The eight new Hawks came via the college draft, trades and outright purchases. And the blending resulted in a revitalized showing. From the 29-51 mark of the previous season ,the Hawks jumped off to a 48-32 record good for seceond place behind the Los Angeles Lakers.

The new-look Hawks flirted with first place throughout the season, hit a low spot in January, then finished with a rush. They downed Detroit three games to one in the semi-final playoffs before falling to the Lakers four victories to three. The Hawks' comeback earned Gallatin Coach of the Year honors in the NBA.

The 1963-64 season saw the Hawk quintet finish second again, battling San Francisco right down to the final day of the season. A 21-game mid-season stint in which Zelmo Beaty, the club's only reliable center, was out of action dampened the title hopes.

The Hawks defeated the Lakers in the semi-finals, then fought the Warriors to the final game of the seven-game Western finals before losing in the Gate City.

There were few new faces that year, but one newcomer, Richie Guerin, proved to be one of the best moves the Hawks ever made. The vet guard was acquired from New York during the first week of the season. In new surroundings, Guerin put together a brilliant season breaking the team scoring mark for guards and exhibiting skills that few thought him capable of.

Injuries seem to hit in clusters and 1964-1965 was the "Year of the Injury" as the Hawks were hit with a rash of crippling ailments that saw their stars miss a good part of the final half of the season. The great Bob Pettit hit the 20,000 point mark to become the first player in pro basketball history to top that lofty diadem, but the team captain missed 30 games with various injuries to set the pace for the season.

Zelmo Beaty was the only player to appear in all 80 games as eight players missed 18 or more contests.

—Continued

The Hawks were in and out of first place most of the year. They faded briefly in December, then finished with a flurry winning 13 of the last 16 games although only six players were hale and hearty.

Guerin was appointed player-coach of the Hawks on Dec. 27 of that season replacing Gallatin, who, in turn, took over the same spot with the Knicks, the team with which he broke into the NBA. Instituting a fast break offense that utilized the talents of the club more effectively, Guerin had a 26-19 won-loss mark for the balance of the campaign.

The Hawks finished four games back of the Lakers in the West despite their gallant finish. They fell in the semi-finals to Baltimore as the injury hex struck again with Pettit playing the final play-off on virtually one leg.

An era in Hawk history and in NBA annals ended at the conclusion of the season when Pettit retired. He finished his 11-year career with 20,880 points and a 26.4 per game mark. The Hawk record book still reads like a memorial to this great star. But with the conclusion of one era, another must begin. And that was what the Hawks did.

They were called the Cinderella team in 1965-1966 as they stormed into the playoffs by one game despite another siege of injuries. With three players sidelined and four others playing with injuries, the Hawks won three straight games from Baltimore in the opening round of the Western playoffs. They then extended the Lakers to seven games before bowing in a thrilling finale.

In 1966-67, that old hex continued to haunt the club. They were leading the West with a 9-5 mark when Beaty suffered a knee injury that was to bench him for 33 games. However, with the reliable Tormohlen standing in for Zelmo, the Hawks managed to put on a late spurt to take second place just five games off the San Francisco pace. The Hawks took the semi-final playoffs from Chicago before the first-place Warriors ended the Hawk hopes four games to two.

But a new group of Hawks was beginning to take shape. Rookie Lou Hudson led the club in scoring and was runnerup as the NBA's Rookie of the Year. Joe Caldwell was acquired in a trade and showed signs of developing into one of the league's most exciting players. Bill Bridges, Pettit's backup man, stepped into a regular spot and finished fifth in the league in rebounding and averaged 17.4 points a game.

However, the Hawks and the NBA lost one of its great ones when Guerin stepped down as an active player after 11 brilliant seasons. But in his first season as a bench coach, he was to reach the pinnacle of the coaching ranks.

With Guerin spending his full time as a strategist, the Hawks jumped off to a 16-1 start at the gun and roared to their sixth Western Division title in 12 years. En route to that crown, the Hawks set a division mark for victories with a 56-26 record.

Under Guerin's guidance Beaty, Wilkens ,Caldwell and Paul Silas each had his finest pro season. But records mean nothing in the playoffs and the Hawks bowed to San Francisco four games to two.

Virtually that same cast will be back this season. Guerin tabbed Tormohlen as his Assistant Coach and in the new surroundings, the Hawks will be out to continue their legacy of victory.

Through the year, the Hawks have had their share of successes and their share of stars, Pettit, Hagan, Lovellette, and the stars of the past have given way to Beaty, Bridges, Hudson and the standouts of the present Hawks.

These stars and their supporting casts have pushed the Hawks to six divisional title, five seconds and one World Championship. The names may be different and the city may be new, but in 1968-1969, the Hawks will be out to uphold the tradition.

THOMAS G. COUSINS

President and Co-Owner

Former Governor Carl E. Sanders and Thomas G. Cousins brought to Atlanta and the Southeast its third major league sports when they made the St. Louis Hawks the Atlanta Hawks with their purchase in May of 1968.

Cousins, a well known real estate executive, was elected President of the club by the Board of Directors. If the club can achieve the meteoric rise that the 36-year-old Cousins expects, then the championship flag may be flying in Atlanta soon.

Just 10 years ago, he formed Cousins Properties Incorporated with $3,000 capitalization and has directed its growth since that time. . . . The firm's activities have focused on real estate development in practically every sector of the industry—subdivisions and home building, apartments and commercial developments, townhouses, industrial parks, shopping centers, office buildings and office parks, an insurance company, a small business investment corporation subsidiary—First American Investment Corporation—specializing in real estate ventures, a mortgage banking subsidiary —Investment Mortgage Company, and a subsidiary which specializes in shopping centers—Retail Planning Corporation. Its assets are now listed in excess of $14 million with operations spanning the eastern United States.

In addition to his responsibilities as President and Chairman of the Board of Cousins Properties, he is a member of the Board of Commissioners of the Georgia Industry and Trade Department, the Board of the Citizens and Southern National Bank of Atlanta. the Executive Committee of Central Atlanta Progress, Inc. . . . the Men's Advisory Committee of tne High Museum of Art and has served as Chairman of the Board of Deacons of Atlanta's North Avenue Presbyterian Church, in addition to . . . in addition to various other civic, business and charitable activities.

Cousins has been honored by the University of Georgia School of Business as an outstanding graduate. He was selected as one of the Outstanding Young Men in Georgia in 1963 by the Georgia Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Cousins' venture into athletics is no accident. He was an all-around athlete throughout high school in Decatur, Ga., and in prep school at Darlington School in Rome, Ga. While attending the University of Georgia, he was a letterman in swimming and held many school records. He is rated one of the finest club golfers in Georgia with his score usually approaching or bettering par.

He and his wife, the former Ann Draughon, are the parents of three children—Jane Caroline (11), Lillian (8) and Thomas, Jr. (5).

CARL SANDERS

Vice President and Co-Owner

Former Georgia Governor Carl E. Sanders is a well-known figure in the political world of the Southeast and the nation. But the capable attorney is also known in the sports world and he entered active participation, when he and Thomas G. Cousins purchased the Atlanta Hawks.

While Governor Sanders was the state's Chief Executive, he was a visitor at sporting events throughout the nation whenever a team representing the state of Georgia was playing. It was during his administration that Atlanta Stadium was built which triggered the move of major league sports to the area.

Governor Sanders is presently involved in active law practice in Atlanta with the firm of Sanders, Hester, Holley, Ashmore and Boozer as a senior partner.

A native of Augusta, Ga., he attended public schools there before entering the University of Georgia in 1941. World War II interrupted his educational plans as he served as a lieutenant in the Air Force.

Governor Sanders returned to college in 1945. He became a campus leader and also returned to his first love—athletics. He went out for the talent-laden Georgia football team and was a reserve quarterback on the school's Oil Bowl team of 1946.

His athletic career has reaped many rewards in recent years. In 1968, he was honored for his service to athletics by the National Football Hall of Fame. And he is frequently called upon to speak at sports functions throughout the Southeast.

Governor Sanders' political career began in 1954 as he served as a member of the state house and senate for eight years. In 1962, he was elected Governor in a rousing 162,000 vote victory over five other candidates.

If there was a star in the Sanders Administration, it was the Georgia school-age child. By 1964 Governor Sanders had developed a Master Plan for Education, ranked among the top ten in the entire nation and completely reconstructing Georgia's educational program. A total of over one billion dollars was invested for all types of education during his tenure as Governor. Penal reforms, expanded mental health facilities and research programs, and programs for the ill and needy were highly significant gains for Georgia in those years.

Since leaving office in 1967—Georgia's governors cannot succeed themselves—he has been busy in civic, charitable and business affairs of the region. His positions have been numerous but have included membership on the President's Commission on Urban Affairs, the Advisory Council of the Office of Economic Opportunity, the National Citizens Committee for Public Television and the Board of Directors of the Public Broadcasting Corp. He has also continued to be active in the Democratic Party at both the state and national level.

The Governor is married to the former Betty Bird Foy and they are the parents of two children, Betty Foy (16) and Carl, Jr. (15).

LEWIS WOODRUFF

Executive Vice President

Long a well-known member of the Southeastern sports scene as an Assistant Football Coach at Georgia Tech, Lewis Woodruff became Executive Vice President of The Atlanta Hawks in May of 1968.

He had ended a 21-year collegiate coaching career after the 1967 football season when he joined Hawk co-owner Thomas Cousins in private business. After the Hawks were obtained, the club's Board of Directors tabbed the likeable Woodruff as co-ordinator of the front office.

Woodruff was respected as one of the better football minds in college ranks. He was able to set up an imaginative offense as well as plan a tough defense. During his career, he was both an offensive and defensive backfield chief and was successful in each spot.

While an assistant to the renowned Bobby Dodd, Woodruff and Tech went to a post-season bowl 12 years, with the Yellow Jackets winning eight. Tech's record during his tenure was 148-58-8.

A great all-around athlete at the University of Georgia, Woodruff was an ultra-successful high school coach before entering the collegiate field. One of his high school performers was a slender end named Tom Cousins, now President and Co-Owner of the Hawks.

He is married to the former Ellen Carroll of Atlanta and they are the parents of two sons, Lewis, Jr. (12) and Tom (10).

MARTY BLAKE

General Manager

The dean of National Basketball Association General Managers, Marty Blake has a long and varied background in professional sports administration.

He joined the Hawks in 1954 when the club was located in Milwaukee serving as Publicity Director and assistant to the then owner of the team, Ben Kerner. He became Business Manager when the club moved to St. Louis a year later and was named General Manager ten years ago.

While still a high school student in Pennsylvania, he headed a six-county amateur boxing program. At 19, he was issued a promoter's license making him the youngest licensed boxing promoter in the world at that time. He eventually moved into the management end, handling several boxers who attained national rankings.

He was a member of the Cleveland Indians' promotional staff from 1946 to 1951 working for Bill Veeck, one of sports' all-time promotional minds. He also worked for the New York Giants and Detroit Tigers in baseball.

Blake is the 1968 Chairman of Georgia Muscular Dystrophy drive.

He is married to the former Marcia Whitworth, a native of Atlanta, and they are the parents of two sons—Buffy (4½) and Ryan (2½).

SKIP CARAY

Director of Broadcasting and Play-by-Play Announcer

Skip Caray will serve The Atlanta Hawks in a dual capacity this season acting as the club's Director of Broadcasting and as play-by-play announcer for the Radio and Television Network.

The 10-year veteran of broadcasting joined the Hawks last year serving as "The Voice of the Hawks" on radio. He will work both Radio and TV this year, as well as coordinating the team's vast networks which should be the most expansive in the National Basketball Association.

Skip is no stranger to Southeastern sports enthusiasts as he was the announcer for the old Atlanta Crackers of the International League in both 1964 and 1965.

His background includes three years with St. Louis U. Basketball, six years with Missouri U. Football, five years with the Missouri High School Basketball Tournament Network and one year with the Tulsa Oilers of the Texas Baseball League. Caray was Assistant Sports Director of KMOX Radio in St. Louis for four years.

The son of popular sports broadcaster Harry Caray (Voice of the St. Louis Baseball Cardinals), Skip was an honor graduate in the Radio-Television News Sequence in the Journalism School at Missouri University in 1961.

He is married to the former Lila Osterkamp. They now live in Atlanta with their two children—Harry III (Chip), 3½ years old and Cynthia, 2 years old.

ATLANTA HAWKS TELEVISION

The Atlanta Hawks will broadcast eight games during the 1968-1969 National Basketball Association season. The originating station for the Hawk Network will be WSB-TV (Channel 2) in Atlanta. The network, which is expected to be the largest in the NBA, will include most of the major cities in the Southeast. Skip Caray will be the Voice of the Hawks on TV.

ATLANTA HAWKS RADIO

Skip Caray will also handle play-by-play duties for the Atlanta Hawk Radio Network. The planned network will encompass most of the Southeast. WSB Radio (750 kc) in Atlanta will be the base station for the network. Seventy-two Hawk games, both at home and on the road, will be broadcast during the season.

RICHIE GUERIN
Head Coach

Richie Guerin earned many honors as one of the great players in the National Basketball Association history and last season in his first season as a full-time coach vaulted to the pinnacle of the coaching ranks. He directed the Hawks to the Western Division title and in the process was a unanimous selection as the NBA's Coach of the Year.

Guerin is now the dean of NBA coaches having directed the Hawk fortunes since late in the 1964 season. He is now guiding the club for his fifth campaign and has upheld the club's tradition of winning. Under his guidance, the Hawks have won one division title, finished second twice and third once while winning 173 games overall.

Last season, Richie led the Hawks to a 56-26 mark which is a record for an NBA Western Division club. With Guerin calling the shots from the bench after three years as a player-coach, the Hawks jumped off to a 16-1 start and were never headed as they rolled to the club's sixth division title.

One of the last of the set-shooting guards, Richie retired from NBA competition after the 1966-67 season. He had played 11 years in the league —seven with the New York Knickerbockers and four with the Hawks.

It was with the Knicks that Richie first jumped into pro basketball prominence. After a rookie season when he averaged just 9.7 points a game, he put together a string of six high-scoring years that was to see his average dip as low as 16.5 only once. His top year was 1961-62 when he tossed in 2,303 points for a 29.5 average (both Knick records), becoming the first guard in league history to top the 2,000 point plateau.

Guerin led the Knicks in scoring three times and still holds club marks in many categories. He hit his NBA single game high as a Knick scoring 57 points and was just 58 points shy of becoming the team's all-time point producer when he was traded to the Hawks at the start of the 1963-64 season.

With the Hawks, Richie was to earn additional honors. In his first year, he set a new scoring high for guards (since zroken) with 1,023 points. And it was on December 27 of that season that he was named player-coach of the club.

Upon his retirement from active play, Richie rated high in most categories in the NBA record book. His 11-year total of 14,518 points in 813 games—a 17.8 average—was ninth on the all-time list.

Richie is a native of New York City and attended Iona College there. He now lives in Atlanta with his wife, the former Pat Keane, and they have four children, Patti Ann (13), Kerry Ann (8), Richie (7) and Cathy Ann (5).

GENE TORMOHLEN
Assistant Coach and Head Scout

Gene Tormohlen is the Atlanta Hawks Assistant Coach and Scout after five seasons with the club as an active player that earned him the reputation as one of the most rugged rebounders in the National Basketball Association.

Big (6-9½, 250 pounds) Gene was selected by the new Phoenix Suns in the expansion draft but chose to retire and enter the coaching ranks with his old teammates.

Tormohlen's rugged play as the Hawks' back-up center tagged him "The Bumper." It was said Gene would run over both friend and foe on his way after a fast-break basket or a rebound and it was this aggressiveness that earned him respect throughout the NBA as a valuable spot player.

He was twice an All-Southeasten Conference performer at the University of Tennessee ad captained the Volunteers in 1959. He was the No. 2 draft choice of the old Syracuse Nats but bypassed the NBA for two seasons in the aNtional Industrial Basketball League and he led the Cleveland Pipers to the national AAU title in 1961.

In 1962, Gene moved into the old American Basketball circuit and was the loop's top center averaging 12.4 points and 10.7 rebounds. The Hawks paid $20,000 and a draft pick for Gene in 1962 and when the ABL folded, he joined the Hawks along with a Kansas City mate, Bill Bridges.

"The Bumper's" top NBA season was two years ago when Zelmo Beaty went to the sidelines for a 33-game stretch and Gene stepped into the breach and contributed 9.5 points and 7.5 rebounds a game and kept the Hawks in the Western Division title race. For the season, he averaged 6.3 points and 6.1 rebounds per outing and hit a personal pro high of 27 points against Philadelphia.

In the off-season, Gene works for the club's promotion department and is a gifted speaker in the Speakers Bureau. He and his wife, the former Julie Strafford, now live in Atlanta and are the proud parents of a daughter, Julie (1).

ATLANTA HAWK FRONT OFFICE PERSONNEL

IRV GACK, BUSINESS MANAGER. Gack moved with the club from St. Louis and will serve in the same capacity he has filled for the past 11 years. He handles the business operation of the club with emphasis on the Sales Department. Irv is known as one of the Hawks' most enthusiastic fans, an enthusiasm that earned him the dubious honor of being one of the few front office people in the NBA to be slapped with a technical foul. A native of New York City, he is married to the former Blanche Schenker and they are the parents of three children, Alan (18), Michelle (15) and Bruce (12).

JAMES PEPPER, SALES DIRECTOR. A behind-the-scenes participant in Southeastern sports in recent years, Pepper came to the Hawks from an Atlanta department store upon the transfer of the club. Pepper has been associated with sports at many levels. He is a certified football, basketball and track official and is active in the promotion of track throughout the South. Pepper serves as the co-ordinator of Hawk ticket sales specializing in season tickets. An Advertising Major graduate of the University of Georgia, he is single.

PRES JUDY, GROUP SALES DIRECTOR. The newest member of the Hawk staff, Judy came to the club from St. Pius High School in Atlanta where he coached the basketball team to its first winning season last year. Judy was a two-time basketball captain at Georgia Tech where he led the team to three straight winning seasons. He still holds the school mark for points in a game with 40 against Florida State in 1966-67 and is the 11th leading scorer in Tech history with 992 points. Judy is in charge of the Hawks Group Sales plus being active in promotions. A native of Lexington, Ky., Judy is unmarried.

FRED "SKIP" FRANZ, TRAINER. Another hold-over from St. Louis, Skip begins his third year as trainer of the Hawks and continues at 24 to be one of the youngest trainers in the NBA. Skip received his introduction to his field while in the Navy. He was stationed at the Naval Academy as a medical aide but was quickly shifted to the athletic department and served three years as an assistant in the training department. Skip works in the off-season as a member of the Hawk sales department. He and his recent bride Donna now live in Atlanta.

AGE: 28
HEIGHT: 6-8
WEIGHT: 235
Born in Hillister, Texas, October 25, 1939
Residence: Atlanta, Georgia
College: Prairie View A&M from 1958 to 1962

Starting his seventh season of pro ball with the Hawks after being tabbed as the club's top draft choice in 1962, Beaty had his finest pro season last year when he averaged 21.1 points a game appearing all 82 contests even though handicapped by a broken shoulder. He led the Hawks in six offensive categories—most points per game (21.1); most field goals made (639) and attempted (1,310); field goal percentage (.488); free throw percentage (.794); and total points scored (1,733). His field goal percentage mark was a new club record . . . Beaty's 20 free throws against Seattle last year was the single game high for the NBA in 1967-68 . . . An accurate out-court shooter who is at his best against Wilt Chamberlain, Bill Russell and Nate Thurmond, Z was named to the Western Division all-star team last year—the second time he has appeared in the mid-season classic .His success was all the more remarkable since he was coming off a season that saw hi msidelined with a knee injury—an ailment which caused him to miss 33 games in 1966-67 . . . Beaty carries career marks of 16.7 points a game and a .471 field goal percentage which is a Hawk career record . . . He tallied his career high single game pro mark of 46 against San Francisco last March 23 in St. Louis during the post-season playoffs . . . Z was 11th in the NBA in scoring last year; and 11th in rebounding—figures which indicate his value to the club . . . The Hawks tabbed him first in 1962 despite being a virtual unknown during his meteoric career at little Prairie View A&M College . . . He led that school to the National Athletic Association of Intercollegiate Athletics crown (NAIA) in 1962 at Kansas City while winning the tourney's Most Valuable Player award . . . He scored 2,567 points in 108 college games as his club won 90 of those affairs . . . He had 2,057 rebounds for a 19.4 per game retrieve mark and he scored an unbelievable field goal percentage of .655 on 971 goals in 1,483 attempts . . . He led Prairie View to two conference titles and won for himself two small-college All-America awards and three NAIA All-American selections . . . In high school, he played baseball, basketball and football, winning all-state honors in basketball his last two years . . . Beaty's high game in college was 48 against Wiley (Texas) College in Feb., 1962, and his high regular season pro grames were achieved last year against Seattle Dec. 3, 1967, and against Boston Jan. 25, 1968, when he scored 42 markers . . . He is married to the former Annie Mallard and they have two children, Deborah Kaye (5) and Darrall (2).

WILLIAM BRIDGES
"Big Bill"

AGE: 29
HEIGHT: 6-8
WEIGHT: 235
Born in Hobbs, New Mexico, on April 4, 1939
Residence: St. Louis, Missouri
College: University of Kansas from 1957 to 1961

One of the top forwards in the NBA, Bill had one of his best seasons last year earning himself continued recognition as one of the best three-way players in the league . . . Only Gus Johnson of Baltimore and Jerry Lucas of Cincinnati are considered in his class as forwards who can play tough defense, rebound and score with equal proficiency . . . Only a lack of publicity has kept Bridges from receiving the acclaim that he deserves . . . He was named team captain this season—a deserving honor for the extremely articulate cager . . . Bill was named to the West All-Star team for the mid-season classic for the second straight season last year . . . This wil lbe his seventh season with the Hawks after joining the club in the middle o fthe 1962-63 season after the demise of the old American Basketball League . . . Bill achieved star status late in the 1965-66 season when the Hawks made a miraculous run in the playoffs . . . Two years ago he was the club's second best scorer with 1,373 points in 79 games for a 17.4 mark and the club's top rebounder with 1,190 retrieves for a 15.1 mark . . . fifth best in the NBA . . . Last year he again led the team in rebounding with 1,102 "bounds"—seventh best in the circuit . . . That year he set single season marks in 11 categories and last year broke three single season career marks—field goal percentage (.462); free throw percentage (.717) and assists (253) . . . He set a new per-game point mark of 37 last Dec. 26, 1967, against Detroit . . . Two years ago in playoff competition he grabbed off 32 rebounds in one game and 28 in another . . . Several new plays instituted by coach Richie Guerin have allowed Bridges to make use of a potent hook shot which make him the "terror" of the ABA seven years ago. A great defensive player, Bridges usually draws the opposing team's top forward and with his 235-pound frame for stability ,Bill usually is more than able to hold his own while guarding the taller players at close-in range . . . The Hawks acquired the rights to Bridges from Chicago (now Baltimore) in the summer of 1962 giving up guard Al Ferrari and forward Shellie McMillon—both of whom never saw action with the club to which they were traded . . . At Kansas University, he was an All-Big Eight selection at center for three straight years and was named the conference's Most Valuable Player in his senior year—in 1961 . . . He set a KU record in conference rebounding with 580 rebounds in his senior year and his career total of 2,081 retrieves is also a school mark . . . He won the Big Eight rebound crown all three of his varsity years. He also holds the Big Eight tourney mark of 145 grabs and the tourney single series mark of 64 set in 1960 . . . He ranks fifth among the all-time KU players with 1,082 points trailing only Wilt Chamberlain, Charles Black, Clyde Lovolette and Wayne Hightower—all NBA performers at one time . . . He was all-state (New Mexico) in high school for three years in basketball and one year in football . . . In his first year in the old ABL, he had a mark of 1,697 points, 1,059 rebounds, a .459 field goal mark and a .702 free throw percentile and was that league's MVP in 1961 . . . Bill would like to go into radio broadcasting upon retirement from basketball . . . A credit to his community, he is a member of Vice President Humphrey's Committee on Youth Development and makes numerous trips throughout the country on behalf of this program and other civic endeavors . . . A fine golfer, he has a four handicap . . . He is married to the former Barbara Gaitor and they have a son, Bill, Jr., and two daughters, Carla and Marla.

WALT HAZZARD
The Wizard

AGE: 26
HEIGHT: 6-3
WEIGHT: 190
Born in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, on April 15, 1942
Residence: Atlanta, Georgia
College: UCLA from 1960 to 1964

One of the best young backliners in the NBA, Hazzard came to the Hawks prior to the opening of the season in exchange for veteran Len Wilkens . . . Last year, playing with expansionite Seattle, he had his best season setting career single season marks in nine departments—field goals made (733); field goals attempted (1,662); free throws made (428); free throws attempted (553); free throw percentile (.774); rebounds (332); assists (493); points scored (1,894) and points per game (23.9) . . . He was the seventh leading scorer in the league and finished fifth in assists with a 6.2 per game mark . . . This will be Walt's fifth year in the league after having been tabbed first by the Los Angeles Lakers in 1964 after a great college career at UCLA . . . At that school, he led the Bruins to three straight Pacific Coast Conference titles while his school rang up a 71-18 record . . . As a sophomore, he and his mates went 21-9 and lost to Cincinnati U. in the NCAA finals . . . His school was 20-9 in his junior year and as a senior he led them to a 30-0 mark and the NCAA title . . . He won All-American honors in his final two years of college play . . . LOUIS HUDSON
Sweet Lou

AGE: 24
HEIGHT: 6-5
WEIGHT: 220
Born in Greensboro, North Carolina, on July 11, 1944
Residence: Greensboro, North Carolina
College: University of Minnesota from 1962 to 1966

A close runner-up for Rookie of the Year honors in his first season with the Hawks in 1966, Hudson missed 36 games last season while serving in the Army . . . He had—for him—an ineffective year scoring only at a 12.5 per game mark but he should finally hit his stride this season . . . He has the ability to become one of the game's great super-stars . . . He reached his playing condition in the middle of February last season and led the Hawks in scoring in the playoffs with at 21.7 mark . . . He was the top draft pick of the Hawks in 1966 after a fine career at the University of Minnesota . . . At the rate he tore up the league as a rookie last year, though, the Hawks can look forward with eagerness to many sparkling seasons by Hudson . . . Despite being used only sparingly in the first 24 games while learning the ropes of the NBA, Hudson led the Hawks in scoring with 1,471 points in 80 games for an 18.4 mark, topping the Hawks' rookie mark previously held by Bob Pettit. Lou averaged 24.7 points a game the final third of the season. His point total placed him 16th in scoring in the NBA. He also was high man for the Hawks in field goals with 620 and field goal attempts with 1,328. He was second in field goal percentage with .467 and scored in double figures in 68 of his 80 games, hitting 10 or more points 30 times, 20 or better 30 times and 30 or more eight times . . . He tied Coach Richie Guerin for the team single game high for the seaon with 41 points against Cincinnati on March 6, 1967, in Memphis . . . Lou also led the Hawks in the playoffs, scoring at a 22.6 clip for nine games . . . Hudson was the first draft choice of the Hawks and the fourth in the NBA last year after going almost unnoticed in his senior year at the University of Minnesota because of playing with a broken right wrist—his shooting hand . . . All-Big Ten for three straight years, Hudson earned All-American honors on several teams as a junior . . . Then after missing seven games after breaking the wrist in his senior year, he played 13 games with a cast on the wrist and still averaged 19.8 points a game while shooting .472 from the field. He missed setting an all-time Minnesota scoring mark by only six points as a result of the injury . . . He did set a single-season individual high as a junior, scoring 558 points in 24 games for a 23.3 mark . . . He also became the first Minnesota player in the modern era to lead the Big Ten in field goals when he registered 139 as a junior . . . Still playing with his hand in a cast, Hudson won the MVP award of a post-season game in Wichita when he scored 22 points and hauled down 19 rebounds . . . After his junior year, he won the MVP award as the United States won the World University Games at Budapest, Hungary . . . An outstanding high school quarterback, he also received numerous football offers and was drafted 20th by the Dallas Cowboys of the NFL, despite the fact that he didn't play college football.

DON OHL
Don Ho

AGE: 32
HEIGHT: 6-3
WEIGHT: 190
Born in Murphysboro, Illinois, on April 18, 1936
Residence: Edwardsville, Illinois
College: University of Illinois from 1954 to 1958

Obtained from the Baltimore Bullets on Jan. 21, 1968, In exchange for Tom Workman, who was the Hawks' top choice in the 1967 draft . . . A fine outcourt shooter, Ohl finished the year with a 13.1 mark with the Hawks and 14.0 overall . . . He had a 405 point mark in 31 Hawks encounters . . . He was originally drafted by Detroit in 1958 but decided to play AAU ball with the Peoria Cats . . . The Warriors sold him to Detroit in 1960 for a reported $5,000 which has to be one of the biggest "steals" in history . . . He hit for 13.3, 17.0, 19.3 and 17.3 for four years with the Pistons then was traded to Baltimore in a multiple-player deal prior to the 1964-65 season . . . He had marks of 18.4, 20.6 and 20.3 in three years with the Bullets . . . This will be his ninth season in the NBA and he has scored 10,222 points in 585 games for a 17.5 mark . . . His best year was in 1965-66 when he scored 1,502 points in 73 games for a 20.6 mark . . . He has a lifetime field goal mark of .443—attesting to his ability to hit the nets—and from way out . . . As an AAU performer he led Peoria to the National Amateur title in Denver in 1960 and was named an AAU All-American each of two years in the amateur ranks . . . He has appeared in six post-season playoffs averaging 20.0 points a game in 36 encounters and he appeared in six NBA All-Star games—two with Detroit and four with Baltimore . . . He hit his single game high of 43 with Baltimore against Detroit Dec. 25, 1966 . . . He ranks 26th among the all-time NBA scorer and 11th among the active players . . . During the off-season he operates an office supply company in his home town . . . Two years ago, Don suffered an injury to his right knee which necessitated surgery for removal of cartilage but he has completely recovered from the ailment and appears set for a banner year . . . He is married to the former July Webber and they have three children—Donald, Jr., Pamela Lee and Tracey Lynn.

JOE CALDWELL
"Jumpin' Joe"
"Pogo"

AGE: 26
HEIGHT: 6-5
WEIGHT: 210
Born in Texas City, Texas, on November 1, 1941
Residence: Tempe, Arizona
College: Arizona State University from 1960 to 1964

One of the most exciting—if not the most exciting player in the NBA, Caldwell had his finest season in four years as a pro last year . . . He set career marks in six categories—field goals made (564); field goals attempted (1,219); field goal percentage (.463); assists (240); points scored (1,293) and points per game (16.4) . . . Joe was switched to guard at the start of last season and he quickly acquired the skill at that position to lead the club to their best start in 13 years—16 wins in 17 games . . . He averaged close to 18 points a game as a backliner . . . He tied his career high mark of 31 twice last year after hitting it twice previously in previous seasons with the club . . . He used his quickness to pick off numerous passes on defense and he steals down the court to gather in many long passes which he turns into exciting fast break dunk shots that excite the crowd to fever pitch . . . Caldwell will be starting his fifth season in the league and his third full campaign with the Hawks. He came to the club in Dec., 1965, in exchange for John Barnhill . . . Upon Caldwell's arrival, the Hawks' fortunes immediately began to rise. He appeared to be the spark the club needed to start them jelling into one of their most exciting seasons . . . In his first game, Joe scored 21 points as the Hawks topped Philadelphia. He came back two nights later to toss in the winning basket in the final 10 seconds as the Hawks beat Boston, 100-98 . . . He continued his sensational play the rest of the year, especially in the post-season playoffs when he averaged 18.9 points a game and hit 33 markers in the initial playoff game against Baltimore, March 24, 1966, on the Bullets' home court—a single game career high for him . . . Joe is the ninth of 11 children born to Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Caldwell. He attended Fremont High School in Los Angeles (living there with a sister) and won All-City and All-American honors in basketball . . . In track, he high jumped 6' 5½" . . . He was asked to try for the Olympic track team in the high jump, but he felt he had to concentrate on a sport in which he could earn some money (Joe is the sole support of 12 people) . . . As an All-American basketball player at Arizona State, he scored 1,518 points—13.3 as a sophomore; 19.7 as a junior; and 21.8 as a senior . . . He was named to the Olympic cage squad and helped lead the U. S. team to the title in Tokyo in the fall of 1964 . . . Drafted first by Detroit in 1964, he saw action in 66 games with the Pistons after joining them following the Olympics. Although he averaged 10.7 points a game, he was unhappy when he was relegated to a substitute role and expressed his displeasure to Detroit coach Dave DeBusschere . . . Joe since has regretted speaking out of turn but his pleasure at being traded to the Hawks is obvious . . . Guerin also believes Caldwell can develop into one of the best defensive players in the league . . . "Joe's got all the tools to be a super-star," Guerin said . . . He is married to the former Sharon Allen and they have two daughters—Tiffany, age 5, and Tracey Lenoir, 16 months.

PAUL SILAS

AGE: 25
HEIGHT: 6-6
WEIGHT: 220
Born in Prescott, Arkansas, on July 12, 1943
Residence: Atlanta, Georgia
College: Creighton University from 1960 to 1964

Starting his fifth season with the Hawks, Silas blossomed into the potent player the Hawks thought he would become in 1967-68 . . . Working on both his ball-handling and his free throw shooting in the off-season, the muscular Silas went on a weight-reducing program which chopped 20 pounds off his 6-6 frame. The result left him considerably faster while still able to clear the boards with the best of the NBA's big men . . . Never having averaged seven points a game in previous seasons Paul finished fifth on the club with a 13.4 mark and became the league's top rebounder per minutes played last season . . . He finished with 958 rebounds for a 11:7 mark per outing . . . He set career single game marks in ten categories last year—field goals made (399); field goals attempted (871); field goal percentage (.458); free throws made (299); free throws attempted (424); free throw percentage (.704); rebounds (958); assists (162); points scored (1,097) and points per game (13.4) . . . He set a single game mark of 28 points against Philadelphia last Jan. 28 . .. Paul was another one of General Manager Marty Blake's many sleepers who made good . . . The Hawks tabbed his as their second pick in 1964 . . . He played at Creighton University of Omaha during his college days . . . He made several All-America teams in his junior and senior years at Creighton while leading his school to 57 wins in 82 games during his three varsity years . . . He set six all-time school marks, including most points, career (1,661); points per game, career (20.5); rebounds, career (1,751); and 21.6 per game . . . Paul led the nation in rebounding as a sophomore and junior and finished second to Bob Pelkington of Xavier University as a senior . . . Silas is married to the former Carolyn Kemp. They have a daughter, Paula, age 2.

JIM DAVIS

AGE: 26
HEIGHT: 6-9½
WEIGHT: 235
Born in Muncie, Indiana, on December 18, 1941
Residence: Muncie, Indiana
College: University of Colorado from 1960 to 1964

Starting his second year with the club, hard-working Jim will be the Hawks' back-up center this season . . . Like George Lehmann, Davis is a product of the Eastern League where he added two inches, 30 pounds and a lot of aggressiveness after failing to make Detroit (he was their third draft choice in 1964) . . . He saw limited action as a forward last year (he can play both forward and center with equal effectiveness), Jim had his single game pro high of 9 against Detroit last November 14 . . . Even though he has averaged about 20 points in most of his college and semi-pro competition, he believes his strongest asset is rebounding. He helped strengthen himself in that category by adding 15 pounds over the summer to increase his weight to 220 pounds . . . After graduating from the University of Colorado in 1964, Jim spent two years dominating the Eastern League, where he believes he developed the aggressiveness to handle himself in the NBA . . . He averaged 26 points a game last year for Sudbury, Pa., and went on to lead his team to second place in the Western Division while being named to the league's first string all-star team. He also scored 20 points in the league's All-Star game . . . He played first string center at Colorado for three years in college, making the all-Big Eight Conference All-Star team his final two seasons. Colorado won the conference title in his sophomore and junior years and finished second his senior campaign. Davis averaged about 18 points and 15 rebounds a game in his college career. His high game was 33 . . . Jim's high school career at famed Muncie Central High in Indiana, although filled with honors, was a frustrating one. His team went to the finals of the state tournament three straight years and lost every time. Muncie was undefeated in Davis' senior year until beaten by East Chicago Washington in the title game. Muncie was ranked No. 1 in the state in Jim's last two years . . . Davis was named to the Indiana All-State team in his junior and senior years, as were two of his teammates—former Boston Celtic Ron Bonham and ex-U. of Miami player John Dampier. A fourth Muncie starter, Jim Nettles, now is a defensive halfback for the Philadelphia Eagle of the National Football League . . . Davis averaged 18 points and 13 rebounds a game in his senior year, then gained the Most Valuable Player award in a post-season Indiana-Ohio All-Star game in which he scored 22 points.

DENNIS HAMILTON

AGE: 24
HEIGHT: 6-8
WEIGHT: 215
Born in Huntington Beach, Calif., on May 8, 1944
Residence: Phoenix, Arizona
College: Arizona State University from 1963 to 1966

Dennis will be starting his second full season in the National Basketball Association after playing last year with Los Angeles . . . He was one of the few players to make the grade in the NBA who was not drafted in the regular May draft . . . The Lakers signed him as a free agent last year after he sat out the 1967-68 season . . . They arranged to have him play amateur ball with a simon-pure team sponsored by Gulf Oil Co. . . . This unit played 65 games on a world tour, winning 60 of these encounters . . . Hamilton was an All-State selection in his senior year at Huntington Beach High . . . At Arizona State, he scored 1,079 points in 80 games for a per-game 13.5 mark . . . hitting 6.2 as a pophomore . . . 17.3 as a junior and 17.0 as a senior . . . He was one of the six players in ASU history to exceed the 1,000 point plateau . . . A fine shooter, he had a .466 field goal mark and a .814 mark from the line in college and last year hit all 13 of his free throws as a Laker . . . He had a .500 mark from the field with the Lakers hitting 54 of 108 shots but saw action in only 44 games scoring 378 points for a 1.6 per game clip . . . Both Richie Guerin and Marty Blake feel Hamilton has the potential to help the club in spot outings . . . He was purchased from the Phoenix Suns who acquired him from the Lakers in the expansion draft for an undisclosed sum of money and a future draft choice . . . He is married to the former Charlene Saylor.

JULES HARLICKA
Skip

AGE: 22
HEIGHT: 6-1½
WEIGHT: 190
Born in Trenton, New Jersey, on October 14, 1946
Residence: Trenton, New Jersey
College: South Carolina from 1964 to 1968

The first draft choice of the Hawks last spring after a brilliant college career under Frank McGuire, dean of Atlantic Coast Conference coaches, at South Carolina . . . Skip missed pre-season training due to army service and will be discharged Nov. 22 . . . He led South Carolina in scoring with a 21.8 mark hitting for 480 points in 22 games for a 21.8 mark . . . Overall, in 69 efforts he had a .472 mark from the field on 482 of 1,022 . . . made 245 of 346 free throws for a .708 mark and an overall mark of 17.5 . . . He ranks seventh among the all-time South Carolina scorers and was named to the All-ACC team twice . . . He was the College Player of the Year in South Carolina last season . . . All-Tourney selections for the Kentucky Invitationl and Malwaukee Classic during his college days . . . Harlicka was rated a better baseball player than a court prospect but switched to the hoop game when he first entered South Carolina . . . he majored in accounting and plans to make Atlanta his home . . . He is best described as a "downtown" shooter for his ability to hit from 20-30 feet from the hoop . . . He had a fine rookie camp and ranks as a good passer and fine, defensive player . . . He plays basketball the year round—indicating his desire.

DWIGHT WALLER

AGE: 23
HEIGHT: 6-7
WEIGHT: 230
Born in Brownsville, Tennessee, on October 5, 1945
Residence: Nashville, Tennessee
College: Tennessee State University from 1963 to 1968

The tenth draft choice of the Hawks last year, Waller could be the best of the many "late" choices discovered by General Manager Marty Blake . . . A rugged rebounder who led his school's cagers in boards for his three years of varsity play, Waller sat out last season which may account for the fact that the Hawks were able to select him low in the annual draft . . . He played football and basketball at Brownsville High and played two years of varsity football at T-State at end . . . He captained the cagers in his junior and senior year . . . For his college career, he had a .469 field goal mark—.513 in his final year . . . Experience is all he needs and he may get that this season but coach Richie Guerin feels he has a big future in pro ball . . . He is married to the former Jean Ellison.

PROSPECTUS: Addition of Westley Unseld expected to give Baltimore much needed board strength. Club has great offensive punch inside and outside and one of the game's top scorers in last season's Rookie of the Year, Earl Monroe. Could surprise and make playoffs.

RETURNEES: Forwards Ray Scott (16.4 and 1,111 rebounds), Gus Johnson (19.0), Jack Marin (13.5), Ed Manning (4.0), Tom Workman (2.8); Centers Leroy Ellis (12.4) and Bob Ferry (5.6); Guards Monroe (24.3) and Kevin Loughery (15.9).

TOP ROOKIES: Unseld, 6-7, 240 pound center, a three-year All-America from Louisville; Bob Quick, 6-5, 215 pound forward from Xavier (0); Barry Orms, 6-3, 185 pound guard from St. Louis U.

PROSPECTUS: Surprised sports world with come-from-behind win in Eastern Division final playoffs last year, then won 10th world title in 12 years. Finished second to 76ers during regular season—eight games off pace. Sam Jones, one of the NBA's all-time backliners, will retire at the end of this season and club is a year older. Not to be counted out due to tremendous personal pride of players plus trade of Wilt Chamberlain to Los Angeles by Philadelphia.

RETURNEES: Forwards Bailey Howell (19.8); Don Nelson (10.0) and Tom Sanders (10.2); Center Bill Russell (12.5 and 1,451 rebounds); Guards John Havlicek (20.7); Sam Jones (19.8); Mal Graham (6.0); Rick Weitzman (1.3). Also acquired veteran guard Emmette Bryant (3.7) from Phoenix and 6-8 center Bud Olsen from Milwaukee. Bryant played with N. PROSPECTUS: Bulls made playoffs past two years and should earn a post-season berth again. Club went heavily for big men in the draft and finish will depend on how rookie crop develops. Bulls should score better and they have a fine backline, but were last in team rebounding last season. Made move to shore up rebounding with reacquisition of Erwin Mueller from Los Angeles.

RETURNEES: Forwards Bob Boozer (21.5), Jim Washington (12.5 and 825 rebounds), Jim Barnes (7.3), Barry Clemens (9.3) and Erwin Mueller (10.3); Guards Flynn Robinson (15.7), Jerry Sloan (13.3) and Clem Haskins (8.9).

TOP ROOKIES: Tom Boerwinkle, 7-0, 250 pound center from Tennessee; Dave Newmark, 7-0, 255 pounds center from Columbia, and Loy Peterson, 6-5, 210 pound guard from Oregon State.

Team Colors—Royal Blue, Red and White
Game Times—Weeknights 8:00, Saturdays 7:00, Sundays 5:00

PROSPECTUS: With a sound Oscar Robertson available from the start and the addition of three outstanding rookies, Cincinnati could get back into the Eastern Division race. Robertson missed 23 games with injuries last year yet still had the best per-game scoring mark in the NBA—29.3 per game. Center is still considered a question mark although Connie Dierking had best pro season last year. Must get maximum results from starting five.

RETURNEES: Forwards Jerry Lucas (21.4 and 1,560 rebounds), John Tresvant (12.3) and Bill Dinwiddie (5.1); Centers Dierking (16.4) and Walt Wesley (6.4); Guards Robertson (29.3), Adrian Smith 15.6) and Tom Van Arsdale (7.9).

TOP ROOKIES: Fred Foster, 6-4, 215 pound forward-guard from Miami (0); Don Smith, 6-8, 230 pound All-America forward from Iowa State; Pat Frink, 6-4, 195 pound guard from Colorado.

PROSPECTUS: They made playoffs on last day of season last year with impressive late season rush but improvement of Baltimore and Cincinnati could hurt their chances this year. Best backline in league with the NBA's top scorer Dave Bing and Eddie Miles, but success of club this season will depend on development of rookie center, Otto Moore.

RETURNEES: Forwards Dave DeBusschere (17.9 and 1,081 rebounds), Harold (Happy) Hairston (17.9), Terry Dischinger (13.1) and Sonny Dove (2.0); Centers Joe Strawder (7.5) and Jim Fox (3.6); Guards Bing (27.1), Miles (18.5) and Jimmy Walker (8.8).

TOP ROOKIES: Otto Moore, 6-10, 215 pound center from Pan-American and Rich Neimann, 7-0, 250 pound center from St. Louis U.

Game Times—Weekdays 8:00, Sundays 7:00

PROSPECTUS: Addition of Wilt Chamberlain should make the Lakers a powerhouse although the club will be weak at guard where only Jerry West and Fred Crawford return. However, reacquisition of Keith Erickson from Chicago and vet Johnny Egan from Milwaukee will help. They won Western Division playoffs and had best record of any club last two months of the season. They have solid starting unit, but must get top-flight performances from rookies Bill Hewitt and Ed Biedenbach.

RETURNEES: Forwards Elgin Baylor (26.0 and 941 rebounds) and Tom Hawkins (9.3); Centers Chamberlain (24.3 and 1,952 rebounds with Philadelphia) and Mel Counts (11.7); Guards West (26.3), Crawford (8.3), Erickson (12.2), Egan (7.0) and Cliff Anderson (1.4).

TOP ROOKIE: Hewitt, 6-6, 210 pound forward from Southern California.

PROSPECTUS: One of two expansion teams, Milwaukee appears—at last on paper—the stronger of the two. They should have strong front line but like all new clubs, the center slot will pose the biggest problem. Success of first year will depend on vet Wayne Embry's ability to give Bucks strong 25-minute game effort in pivot.

VETERANS: Forwards Len Chappell (8.9 with Detroit), Dave Gambee (13.4 with San Diego); Fred Hetzel (19.0 with San Francisco), Bob Love (10.4 with Cincinnati), Jay Miller (2.5 with St. Louis); Center Embry (6.3 with Boston); Guards Jon McGlocklin (12.1 with San Diego), Bob Warlick (8.9 with San Francisco) and Guy Rodgers (5.2 with Cincinnati).

TOP ROOKIES: Dick Cunningham, 6-10, 250 center from Murray State obtained in September trade with Phoenix; Charles Paulk, 6-7, 215 pound forward from Northeast Oklahoma; Sam Williams 6-3, 200 pound guard-forward from Iowa.

PROSPECTUS: They made playoffs last year for first time since 1958-1959 season. May have the best all-round club in Eastern Division if sophomores Walt Frazier, Bill Bradley and Phil Jackson play up to potential. Knicks have good depth, great rebounding and fine offensive potential to go with a great running game.

RETURNEES: Forwards Willis Reed (20.8 and 1,073 rebounds), Cazzie Russell (16.9) and Jackson (6.2) Centers Walt Bellamy (16.7 and 961 rebounds) and Nate Bowman (2.7) Guards Dick Barnett (18.0), Frazier (9.0), Bradley (8.0) and Butch Komives (7.7).

PROSPECTUS: John Kerr who won Coach of the Year honors at Chicago two years ago with most successful expansion club in sports history, takes over at Phoenix. He'll have tougher time with new club this time around. Club is weak at center although forwards and guards are respectable. They must trade for an experienced center or go with George Wilson, who is actually a forward at that spot.

VETERANS: Forwards Neil Johnson (2.6 at New York), Dave Lattin (2.2 at San Francisco), McCoy McLemore (12.7 at Chicago) and Dick Van Arsdale (11.0 at New York); Center Wilson (6.1 at Seattle); Guards Gail Goodrich (13.8 at Los Angeles), Dick Snyder (8.6 at St. Louis), Stan McKenzie (4.1 at Baltimore) and Dave Schellhase (2.7 at Chicago).

TOP ROOKIE: Gary Gregor, 6-6, 230 pound forward from South Carolina.

PROSPECTUS: Club lost 32 of last 33 games last year being beset by injuries to key personnel throughout the year. They should have a strong front line with the addition of All-America Elvin Hayes, but will have to shore up backcourt in the hope of earning a playoff berth.

RETURNEES: Forwards Don Kojis (19.7), Toby Kimball (11.0 and 947 rebounds), Pat Riley (7.9) and John Block (20.2); Center Henry Finkel (11.6); Guards Art Williams (8.1) and Jim Barnett (9.4.).

TOP ROOKIES: Hayes, 6-9, 235 pound forward from Houston, the Collegiate Player of the Year last season; John Trapp, 6-7, 200 pound forward from Nevada Southern; Stuart Lantz, 6-0 180 pound guard from Nebraska.

PROSPECTUS: Club ousted Hawks in opening round of Western Division playoffs last season then lost four straight to Lakers. Lost heavily in expansion draft but the return of Nate Thurmond, one of the NBA's top centers, should help. They can score but give up an equal number of points. Thurmond is the key to their success.

RETURNEES: Forwards Rudy LaRusso (21.8), Bill Turner (4.1) and Joe Ellis (5.0); Centers Thurmond (20.5 and 1,121 rebounds) and Clyde Lee (11.9 and 1,141 rebounds); Guards Jeff Mullins (18.9), Jim King (16.5), Al Attles (9.8) and Bob Lewis (4.4).

TOP ROOKIE: Ron Williams, 6-3, 190 pound guard from West Virginia.

PROSPECTUS: Sonics should be much improved and could earn a playoff berth if their top rookie, Bob Kauffman, lives up to his potential. They have a fine backcourt and good scoring punch upcourt. After a mid-season spurt they tailed off at the end when injuries struck in mass.

RETURNEES: Forwards Tom Meschery (14.5), Al Tucker (13.1) and Henry Akin (3.1); Center Bob Rule (18.1);Lennie Wilkens (20.0), obtained from the Hawks, Tom Kron (9.8), Rod Thorn (15.2) and Plummer Lott (2.5).

TOP ROOKIES: Kauffman, 6-8, 240 pound forward from Guilford College; Art Harris, 6-4, 200 pound guard from Stanford.

BONUS FOUL RULE

(a) Each team shall be limited to five personal fouls (offensive fouls do not count as team fouls) per quarter with each foul in excess to be penalized by an additional free throw. (b) During each overtime period, the limitation shall be three personal fouls per team. (c) A one-shot penalty becomes a two-shot penalty. (d) If the excess foul calls for a two-shot penalty, an additional shot shall be permitted if either of the two shots are missed—three chances to make two. (e) In the last two minutes of each quarter and of any overtime period, if a team has not reached its quota of personal fouls one will be permitted with the second charged the same as the sixth. (f) The highest number of points that may be scored on one play is three with the exception of when there is a technical foul called on a three-point play.

24-SECOND RULE

A team in control of the ball must make an attempt to score within 24 seconds after gaining control of the ball. To constitute a legal attempt to score the following conditions must be compiled with:

A. The ball must leave the player's hands prior to the expiration of 24 seconds.

B. The ball must hit the rim or a legal surface of the backboard.

If there is a question as to whether or not an attempt to score has been made within 24 seconds, and there is doubt in the mind of the official as to whether or not the rule has been violated, the final decision shall be made by the referees on the floor who shall, in the event of doubt as to the expiration of 24 seconds, give the player the benefit of the doubt if the ball hits the rim or a legal surface of the backboard.
